Altium Q3 sales and revenue update

Q3 delivers sales growth in excess of 30%

SYDNEY, Australia – April 18, 2007 – Altium Limited (ASX: ALU), industry-leading developer of unified electronic product development solutions, today advises the market of its sales and revenue results for the quarter ending March 31, 2007.

For the quarter ending March 31, 2007, the company announces that it has achieved sales growth across all regions resulting in another quarter of growth in excess of 30%. This sales growth translates to Q3 revenues of AU$12.3m representing an increase of 19% on the previous corresponding quarter. The difference between sales and revenue is due to the increasing percentage of sales being derived from maintenance and software assurance contracts which are recognized as revenue over an extended period.

Since June 30, 2006 revenue that has been deferred to be recognized in future periods has increased from AU$5.3m to AU$7.5m representing significant future value for the business.

Revenue recognized Q3	Net deferred revenue	Sales Q3
AU$12.3m	AU$0.6m	AU$12.9m

"Once again our revenue growth has been driven by continued strong performance in the sales of Altium Designer, our unified electronic product development system, across all markets." said Nick Martin, Founder and CEO, Altium Limited. "Altium has just seen it's third consecutive quarter of 30% growth in sales over the previous corresponding period and we remain confident about our strong strategic position and ability to continue to realize healthy gains through to the end of the financial year."
