Altium's CFO Departing the Company after 7 years of Service

Sydney, Australia - 7 September 2015 - Electronics design software company Altium Limited (ASX:ALU) today announces the departure of its Chief Financial Officer, Mr Richard Leon after 7 years of service to the company.

Altium's CEO, Mr Aram Mirkazemi expressed his appreciation of Mr Leon's long-standing contribution to Altium. "I am very grateful to Richard for his unwavering commitment and passion for Altium. Richard has been a key contributor to Altium's journey as the company has regained financial strength. This has allowed us to execute on our strategy for market leadership with a greater confidence. With a strong and well established financial platform as well as our sustained focus on our core technology, Altium is well on its way to becoming market leader in PCB design software."

Mr Leon commented on his departure from Altium. "I have enjoyed working with the leadership team at Altium and being a part of the company's journey as it builds momentum in its pursuit to become the number one PCB company in the world. It is somewhat with a heavy heart that my journey with Altium concludes due to family circumstances. However, I believe that Altium's culture of value discipline and its commitment to growing its operating leverage is now well established and firmly incorporated into its DNA. I have no doubt that Altium will be able to find the right CFO for its next phase of growth who can take Altium's financial strength to the next level and build upon this financial platform."

Altium's Chairman, Mr Sam Weiss acknowledged Mr Leon's valued contribution to the Company since joining in 2008. "Our Board of Directors is grateful to Richard for his contribution to Altium over many years. He leaves the Company with a solid balance sheet, positive relationships with investors and with the tools in place to grow wisely and to grow well."

The search process has commenced for a new CFO to support Altium's next phase of growth. Mr Mirkazemi noted that Altium has strong business leadership that will continue to drive the business while waiting for the right CFO appointment.

Mr Leon's resignation is effective from 30 September 2015.
